This one-week tour visits the migration hotspots on the northern and southern Black Sea coast, where the migration is a truly remarkable spectacle. The southern section in particular is a bottleneck for birds from all of eastern Europe.

Flocks of tens of thousands of White Stork, birds of prey and pelicans heading south fill the skies, as well as passerines such as Red-breasted Flycatcher and Pied Wheatear, and a good selection of waders.

Balkania Travel

In the north there will be visits to important hotspots like Kaliakra and Kamen Bryag, Varna lake, Durankulak and Shabla lakes. At these northern sites we are hoping for a wide range of smaller birds including numbers of Red-breasted Flycatchers, warblers, wheatears and wagtails.

In the south there will be excursions to the Burgas lakes, especially Atanassovsko and the Migration Watch Point, BSPB Poda reserve, the Ropotamo reserve and the hills behind Sunny Beach. This is the area that should produce the most visible migration with passage of storks, pelicans, buzzards and eagles, together with a good selection of waders.

Our tour leader, Assen Ignatov, works for the National Museum of Natural History. He is a very experienced and knowledgeable guide, as well as being a gifted artist and photographer.
